

MISSION SUPPORT SERVICES

Sustaining mission momentum

A mission's performance rides on the strength of its strategy. And this strategy must envelop the entirety of the mission—it's programs, its project and its people. TUVA customers see this at work in our Project Management Office (PMO) and Technical and Leadership Training services.

Project Management Office (PMO)

When TUVA manages your PMO, we build more than a common set of practices, principles, templates and data requirements (although these will always be at the PMO's core). We're embedded in your organization to foster continuous improvement, encourage collaboration between project professionals and departments, recognize accomplishment, ensure senior management support and make certain that the mission is fully understood by all your stakeholders. These are the intangible business drivers that improve productivity, reduce costs, deliver projects ahead of schedule and foster a culture of success.

Technical & Leadership Training

TUVA offers a wide array customized business-oriented training courses built around the unique requirements of each of our customers. Subject matter ranges from today's most popular business productivity tools to courses on leadership, communications, media relations and crisis management.
